Dear [Name]:

Evolution Nature Corp., d/b/a The Evolution Store (“Evolution”), is writing to supplement its letter to you sent October 27, 2014 informing you of a data incident that may affect the security of your personal information. This is NOT notice of a second compromise. Rather, this letter includes additional information as to the dates of the event. We are unaware of any actual or attempted misuse of your personal information but are nevertheless providing notice of this incident to you so that you may take steps to monitor your identity and accounts should you feel it is necessary to do so.

Evolution received a complaint of credit-card fraud from a customer and immediately initiated a thorough investigation, supported by a top-tier and globally recognized third-party data forensics expert, Stroz Friedberg, LLC (“Stroz”). On September 16, 2014, Stroz confirmed that unauthorized IP addresses were accessing Evolution’s e-commerce site, and that customer order information, including card data, may have been accessible to the unauthorized individuals. Evolution and Stroz’s teams worked aggressively to address the unauthorized access and ensure that customer payments are protected. Stroz’s investigation confirmed that unauthorized IP addresses first accessed the e-commerce site on March 2, 2014, and that the last date of unauthorized access was August 19, 2014. In-store payments were not affected.

While our investigation into the matter is ongoing, we have determined that this incident may have resulted in unauthorized access to your name, email address, phone number, billing address, shipping address, order information, user name, and credit/debit card data (including card number, CVV number, and expiration date).

We take the security of your personal information very seriously. In addition to launching an investigation into the matter and providing notice of this matter to you, we are reviewing our policies, procedures and employee education. We immediately changed all user login and passwords, and blocked access to our e-commerce site login to all but a few authorized IP addresses. We have also provided notice of this incident to certain state regulators.

Additionally, Evolution has retained AllClear ID to protect your identity for 12 months at no cost to you. These identity protection services start on the date of this notice and you can use them at any time during the next 12 months.
