NOTICE OF SECURITY INCIDENT

Dear <<first_name>>,

We are writing to let you know about an incident that affected an online digital insurance application platform operated by Assurance IQ, LLC (“Assurance”) for consumers to apply for certain life insurance products offered through USA Family Protection Insurance Services, LLC on behalf of its affiliated insurance company, Lumico Life Insurance Company (together, “USA Family”).

We want to make clear at the outset that keeping personal data safe and secure is very important to both Assurance and USA Family, and will continue to be a priority moving forward.

WHAT HAPPENED?

We have learned that an unauthorized third party or parties may have obtained the driver’s license numbers of certain individuals through an online life insurance application process hosted on Assurance’s websites. We are conducting a thorough investigation. Based on our investigation to date, we believe that this unauthorized activity, which was limited to the use of Assurance’s public-facing websites, began in November 2020 and continued intermittently through April 1, 2022, when we implemented measures designed to prevent further data exposure.

Our investigation has determined that an unauthorized third party entered your name, along with a mailing address, date of birth, or other information purported to be associated with you, into the online life insurance application. We believe your name, address, and other information were obtained by the unauthorized third party from external sources and not from Assurance or USA Family, companies that may be unfamiliar to you if you have never applied for life insurance on Assurance websites. Based on that information, USA Family retrieved a driver’s license number that was then displayed to the unauthorized third party in the online application hosted by Assurance.

We have notified law enforcement of this incident, but have not delayed this notification as a result of any law enforcement investigation.

WHAT INFORMATION WAS INVOLVED?

The personal information that may have been exposed was limited to your driver’s license number and state of issuance. However, we are not able to confirm the accuracy of the personal information provided by the unauthorized third party or whether the driver’s license number displayed in fact belongs to you. We are offering the identity monitoring services below out of an abundance of caution.

Please note that no insurance policy or other product was issued in your name in connection with this incident, and we have no information suggesting that your driver’s license number has been misused.

WHAT WE ARE DOING

Upon learning about this unauthorized activity, we promptly began an investigation and took action to address this incident, including by taking steps to prevent unauthorized actors from obtaining further personal information.

We have also secured the services of Kroll to provide identity monitoring services at no cost to you for two years. Kroll is a global leader in risk mitigation and response, and their team has extensive experience helping people who have sustained an unintentional exposure of confidential data.

Additional Resources

Below are additional helpful tips you may want to consider to protect your personal information.

Review Your Credit Reports and Account Statements; Notify Law Enforcement of Suspicious Activity

As a precautionary measure, we recommend that you remain vigilant by reviewing your credit reports and account statements closely. If you detect any suspicious activity on an account, you should promptly notify the financial institution or other company with which the account is maintained. You also should promptly report any fraudulent activity or any suspected incidents of identity theft to proper law enforcement authorities. If you believe you are the victim of identity theft or have reason to believe your personal information has been misused, you should immediately contact law enforcement, the Federal Trade Commission (“FTC”) and/or the Attorney General’s office in your home state. You can also contact these agencies for information on how to prevent or avoid identity theft, and you can contact the FTC at:

When you receive your credit reports, review them carefully. Look for accounts or credit inquiries that you did not initiate or do not recognize. Look for information, such as home address and Social Security number, that is inaccurate. If you see anything you do not understand, call the credit reporting agency at the telephone number on the report.

Fraud Alert

You may want to consider placing a fraud alert on your credit file. An initial fraud alert is free and will stay on your credit file for at least 1 year. The alert informs creditors of possible fraudulent activity within your report and requests that the creditor contact you prior to establishing any accounts in your name. If you have already been a victim of identity theft, you may have an extended alert placed on your report if you provide the appropriate documentary proof. An extended fraud alert stays on your credit report for seven years. To place a fraud alert on your credit report, contact any of the three credit reporting agencies identified above.

Security Freeze

You have the right to place a security freeze on your credit file free of charge. This will prevent new credit from being opened in your name without the use of a PIN number that is issued to you when you initiate the freeze. A security freeze is designed to prevent credit, loans, and services from being approved in your name without your consent. As a result, using a security freeze may delay your ability to obtain credit. In order to place a security freeze, you may be required to provide the consumer reporting agency with information that identifies you including your full name; social security number; date of birth; current and previous addresses; a copy of your state-issued identification card; and a recent utility bill, bank statement, or telephone bill.

Federal Fair Credit Reporting Act Rights

The Fair Credit Reporting Act (FCRA) is federal legislation that regulates how consumer reporting agencies use your information. It promotes the accuracy, fairness, and privacy of consumer information in the files of consumer reporting agencies. As a consumer, you have certain rights under the FCRA, which the FTC has summarized as follows: you must be told if information in your file has been used against you; you have the right to know what is in your file; you have the right to ask for a credit score; you have the right to dispute incomplete or inaccurate information; consumer reporting agencies must correct or delete inaccurate, incomplete, or unverifiable information; consumer reporting agencies may not report outdated negative information; access to your file is limited; you must give your consent for reports to be provided to employers; you may limit “prescreened” offers of credit and insurance you get based on information in your credit report; and you may seek damages from violators. Identity theft victims and active duty military personnel have additional rights.

For more information about these rights, you may go to www.ftc.gov/credit or write to: Consumer Response Center, Room 13-A, Federal Trade Commission, 600 Pennsylvania Ave. N.W., Washington, D.C. 20580.
