Dear <<First Name>>:

As a firm we deeply value the relationship of trust we have with our people and our clients. We have a strong sense of responsibility for the confidential information that is shared with us and take extensive measures to protect that information. Nevertheless, as outlined in our June 8, 2023 email to you, a recent global data incident impacting a software vendor used by many prominent organizations around the world has also impacted Gensler.

The purpose of this letter is to provide a hardcopy notice describing the incident and reiterate the actions the firm has taken to date and the steps you can take to protect your personal data.

Incident Overview

The incident involved Progress MOVEit, a software vendor used by global organizations, including Gensler, as a secure file transfer protocol (also referred to as “Secure FTP”). The incident involved an unauthorized party intermittently accessing and copying certain Gensler files on the platform between May 27, 2023 and May 31, 2023.

We conducted a thorough review of the involved files and on June 8, 2023, we determined that one of these files included your name, Social Security number, date of birth, and home address.

Actions to Protect Your Data

Upon learning of the incident, Gensler IT acted swiftly to disable web access to the FTP environment, patch the exploit, and secure our Gensler systems. We immediately began an investigation and forensic analysis and determined that personal information of our Gensler colleagues in the United States was included in the incident. We also confirmed that the incident did not impact our internal Gensler systems.

As a precaution, we arranged for you to receive a complimentary, two-year membership of identity theft protection and credit monitoring services through Experian. These services are completely free to you and enrolling in these services will not hurt your credit score. For more information on identity theft prevention, additional steps you can take in response, and instructions on how to activate your complimentary, two-year membership, please see the following pages provided with this letter.

Additional Information

Our Regional HR Directors and Regional Legal Counsel are available to provide you support and answer any questions about the incident. You may also contact our dedicated helpline at <<Call Center Number>> from <<Hours of Operation>> Eastern Time, Monday through Friday, excluding certain major U.S. holidays.

We remind you that following incidents like this, it is important to be especially vigilant with emails, calls, texts, or mail scams that ask for personal information. Suspicious messages should be forwarded to badmail@gensler.com.

Please be reassured that there is a global response team working diligently and tirelessly to take all steps possible to mitigate any potential further impact from this incident.

Sincerely,

You can obtain information from these sources about steps an individual can take to avoid identity theft as well as information about fraud alerts and security freezes. You should also contact your local law enforcement authorities and file a police report. Obtain a copy of the police report in case you are asked to provide copies to creditors to correct your records. Contact information for the Federal Trade Commission is as follows:

Fraud Alerts and Credit or Security Freezes:

Fraud Alerts: There are two types of general fraud alerts you can place on your credit report to put your creditors on notice that you may be a victim of fraud—an initial alert and an extended alert. You may ask that an initial fraud alert be placed on your credit report if you suspect you have been, or are about to be, a victim of identity theft. An initial fraud alert stays on your credit report for one year. You may have an extended alert placed on your credit report if you have already been a victim of identity theft with the appropriate documentary proof. An extended fraud alert stays on your credit report for seven years.

To place a fraud alert on your credit reports, contact one of the nationwide credit bureaus. A fraud alert is free. The credit bureau you contact must tell the other two, and all three will place an alert on their versions of your report.

For those in the military who want to protect their credit while deployed, an Active-Duty Military Fraud Alert lasts for one year and can be renewed for the length of your deployment. The credit bureaus will also take you off their marketing lists for pre-screened credit card offers for two years, unless you ask them not to.

Credit or Security Freezes: You have the right to put a credit freeze, also known as a security freeze, on your credit file, free of charge, which makes it more difficult for identity thieves to open new accounts in your name. That's because most creditors need to see your credit report before they approve a new account. If they can't see your report, they may not extend the credit.

How do I place a freeze on my credit reports? There is no fee to place or lift a security freeze. Unlike a fraud alert, you must separately place a security freeze on your credit file at each credit reporting company. For information and instructions to place a security freeze, contact each of the credit reporting agencies at the addresses below:

- Experian Security Freeze, PO Box 9554, Allen, TX 75013, www.experian.com
- TransUnion Security Freeze, PO Box 160, Woodlyn, PA 19094, www.transunion.com
- Equifax Security Freeze, PO Box 105788, Atlanta, GA 30348, www.equifax.com

You'll need to supply your name, address, date of birth, Social Security number and other personal information.

After receiving your freeze request, each credit bureau will provide you with a unique PIN (personal identification number) or password. Keep the PIN or password in a safe place. You will need it if you choose to lift the freeze.

How do I lift a freeze? A freeze remains in place until you ask the credit bureau to temporarily lift it or remove it altogether. If the request is made online or by phone, a credit bureau must lift a freeze within one hour. If the request is made by mail, then the bureau must lift the freeze no later than three business days after getting your request.

If you opt for a temporary lift because you are applying for credit or a job, and you can find out which credit bureau the business will contact for your file, you can save some time by lifting the freeze only at that particular credit bureau. Otherwise, you need to make the request with all three credit bureaus.
