I'm sorry, I do not have a phone number for you. The form itself would need to be submitted to the court where the records are filed. A list of court contact information is here:

Hi, Jessica. Thank you for this information. I looked at their website and I wanted to call someone with questions about filling out a records request form. I couldn't find a number or email address anywhere to get some guidance. Would you happen to have a contact number for someone there?

Again, I thank you for your help and direction!
Katherine

Hello Katherine,

As stated previously, the Attorney General's Office is not the custodian of the records you seek. I suggest contacting the Vermont Judiciary linked here: <https://www.vermontjudiciary.org/about-vermont-judiciary/records-requests>

I hope this information is helpful to you.

Best,

Hi, Jessica. There is a document, dated December 6, 2013 which I believe you may have. The DCF office did not have it on record, and it may be a temporary order or a final order establishing parentage, possession schedule, and child support. Would you please check your records and see if you have a copy of it? The parties are Thomas Joseph Chelak, Jr. and Cristina Witte.

Best regards,
Katherine Williamson
