What I love about Vermont is the air. I love it because it is so clean when you walk outside you don't sneeze. Some of Vermont's rivers have hikes. The hikes are fun and the views are awesome. I love the mountains in winter. I love all the things you can do.

But we can make it a lot better. The hikes have a lot of trash. It has plastic water bottles. We should bring our own water bottles or put some trash cans here and there so the animals don't get hurt. And when we cut down a tree we plant a tree so it can be better than now. We should also do gardens so we don't have to drive cars that much and it will help the environment a lot for the air we breath.

We can also help the world by using real water bottles then plastic water bottles. Having gardens so we don't use cars that much for air. Put our trash where trash needs to go. Also when we cut down trees we are hurting animals but when we cut a tree plant a tree to help the air, people, and animals from becoming extinct.

How I help Vermont. I help Vermont by picking up trash when I go on hikes and walks. My family does it on earth day. We also give real water bottles to my nabors so they don't use plastic water bottles to help animals.
