Earth Day

I love Vermont because of the mountains, clean air and hiking trails. I like the mountains because they are so beautiful. The mountains also protect us from tornadoes. I like the clean air because every time I go outside, I can breathe wonderful air. I love Vermont because of the hiking trails. You can just hike and look at the beautiful nature.

I enjoy Vermont because of the four seasons. In the summer, you can go swimming, hiking and running. In the winter, you can build snowmen, go skiing, ice skating and have snowball fights. In the fall, you can look at the leaves, jump in leaves, pick pumpkins and bake pumpkin pie. And in spring, you can plant flowers, take a walk and ride your bike. I also enjoy all the fun things you can do, like bike riding, swimming in pools skiing and looking at nature.

I also have some concerns about the future of Vermont environment. The first is pollution because not all people recycle. One time when I was walking on the sidewalk, I saw a lot of garbage. So I decided to pick up the garbage and throw it away. A lot of people also drive cars, which is bad for the air.

There are some ways we can fix the future of the Vermont environment. One way is to recycle so there is less trash on the road. People can also use reusable bags and not plastic bags. People can also stop driving cars and instead they can walk, ride their bikes or they can buy an electric car. These are some ways we can fix the future of the Vermont environment.
